WILLIAM FLEMING HIGH SCHOOL

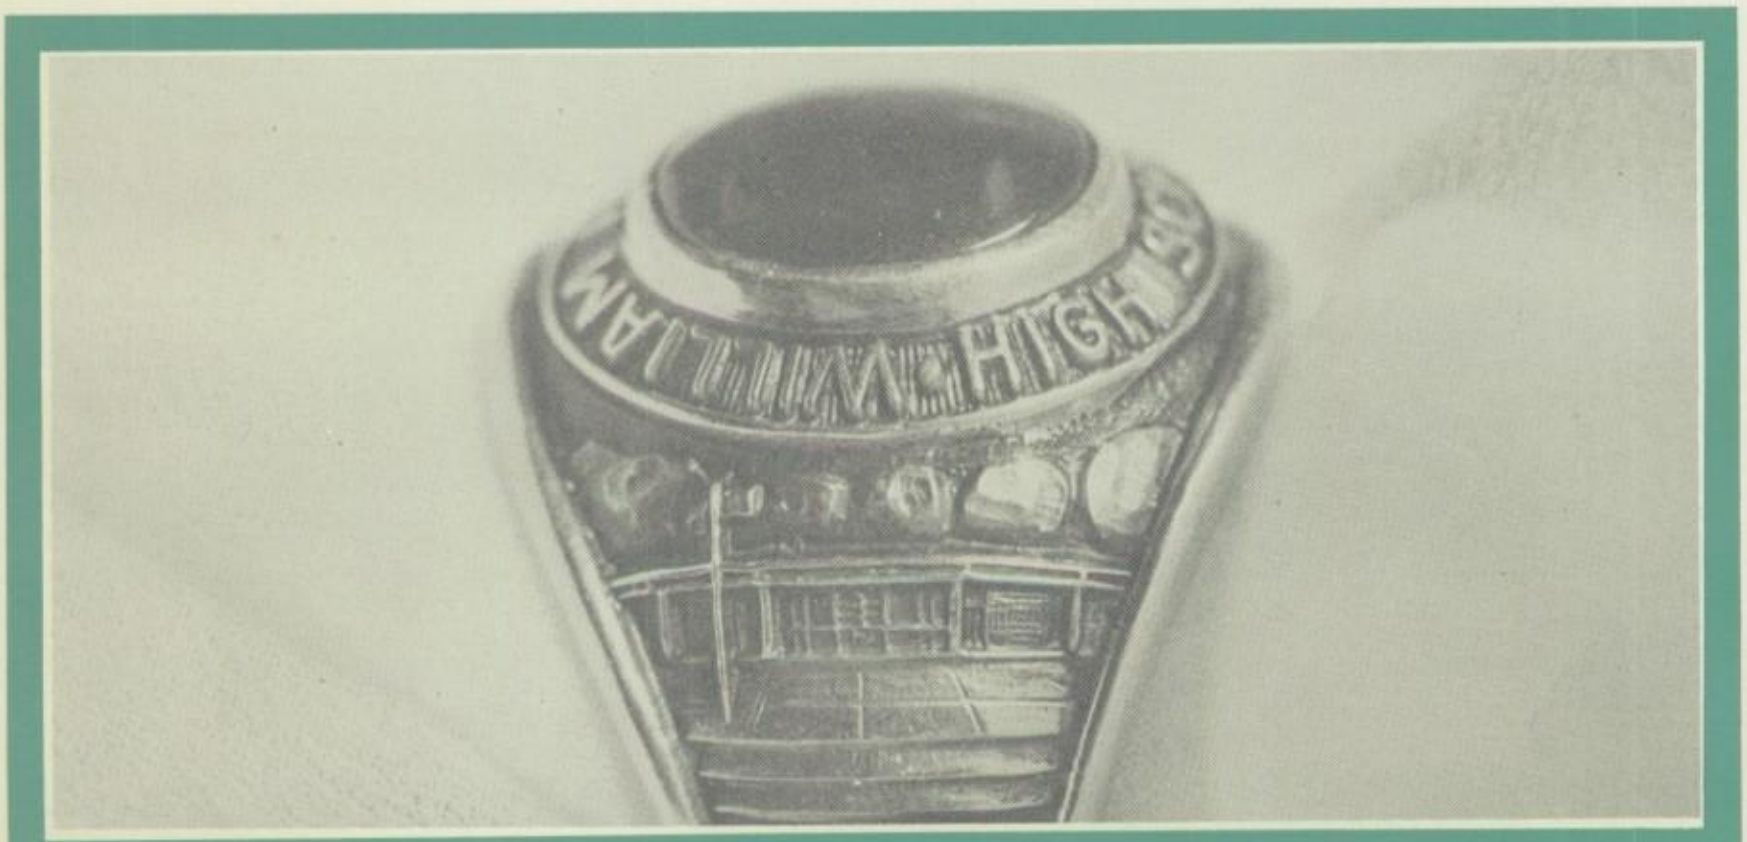
Roanoke, Virginia

ALMA MATER

In the heart of nature's wonders
Reared against the sky,
Proudly stands our Alma Mater
As the years go by.
Forward ever be our watchword,
Conquer and prevail;
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Fleming High, all hail!

As the last sounds of saws and hammers faded away, we realized that the physical construction of our school was complete. For months we watched anxiously as skilled workmen put the finishing touches on the new buildings. Now, they have gone, and we are the ones who must mold and polish the character of Fleming into a s h i n i n g example of education. We have reached one goal, but we must strive on.

For, like the widespreading fields around us, our opportunities have become unlimited. Not only must we uphold the spirit and rich traditions of Fleming, but we will be challenged to bring new honors and distinction to our school. This challenge is great; although we are set on a hill, we must remember the majestic mountains looming before us, and, thoughtfully looking toward them, ever strive on to NEW HORIZONS.



The new administration building is depicted on the William Fleming senior ring.

A symbol of success . . . a recognition of chievements, in this our New Horizon

WE PAY TRIBUTE

to

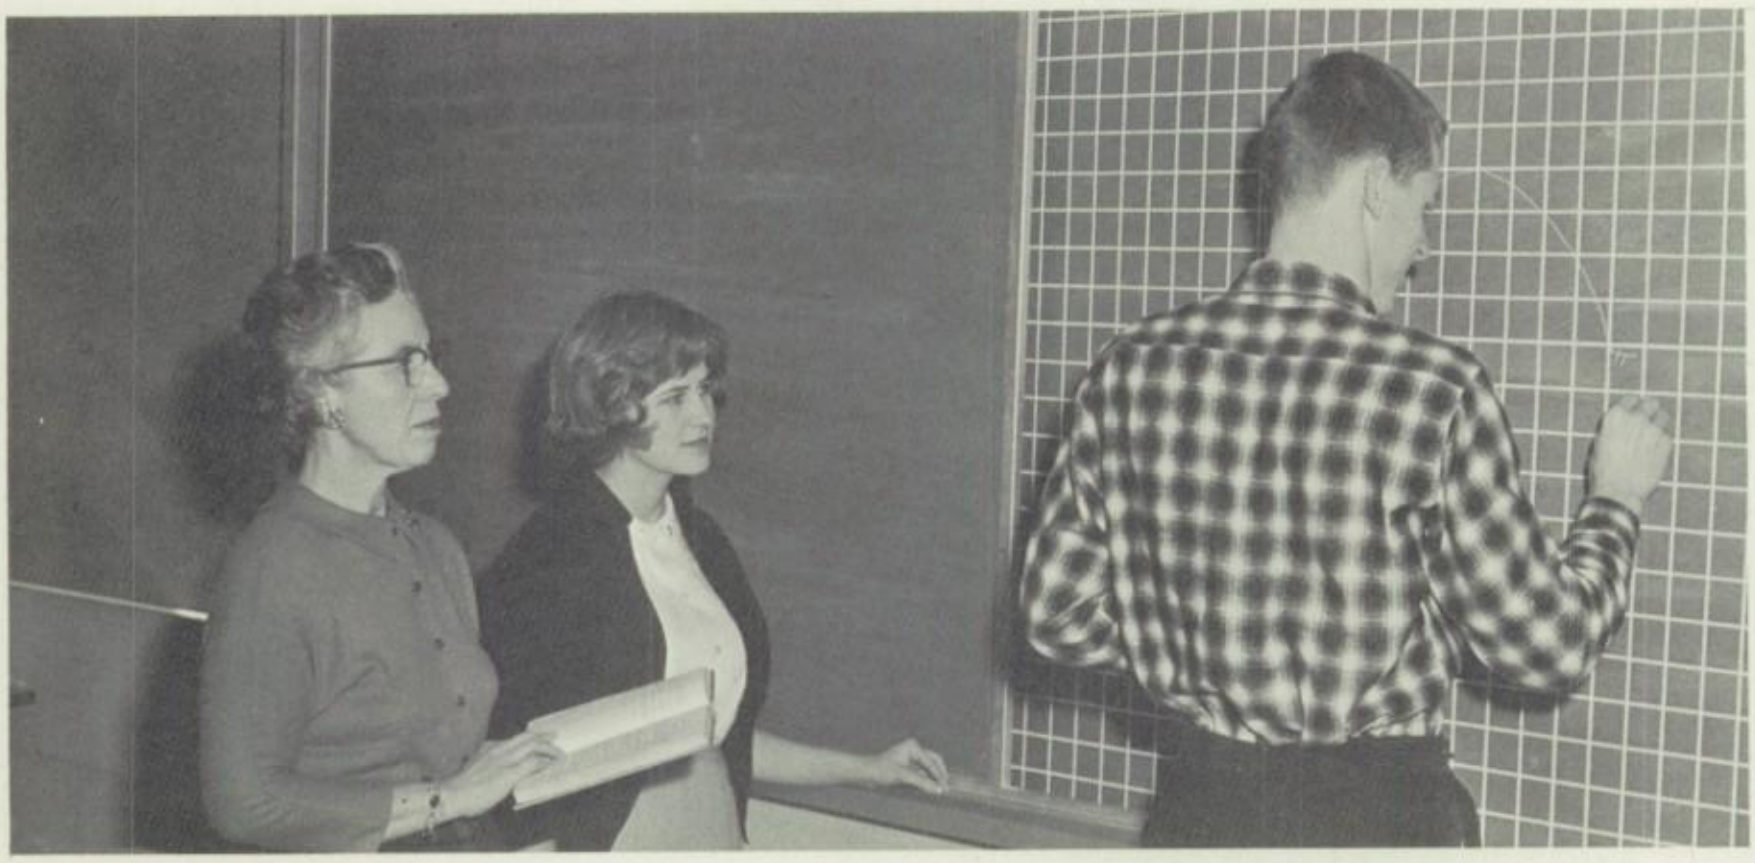
In the complex panorama of today's Fleming, a serene and forceful figure continues to enrich her classes and the science department with the understanding and abundant knowledge that have been an integral part of Fleming for nineteen years. In her teaching, her community service, and her everyday relationship with those around her, she is the embodiment of the beautiful lines,

"A perfect woman, nobly planned
To warm, to comfort, and command."

To one who has brought great honors to our school through her own accomplishments and those of her students, and who has given wings to our spirits, we dedicate this 1962 Colonel to Mrs. Ruth Bricker Painter.

Mrs. Painter proudly shows off "Caesar" to "Colonel" photographer.

Mrs. Painter works conscientiously with students on their Science Fair projects. Here she aids Steve Mason.

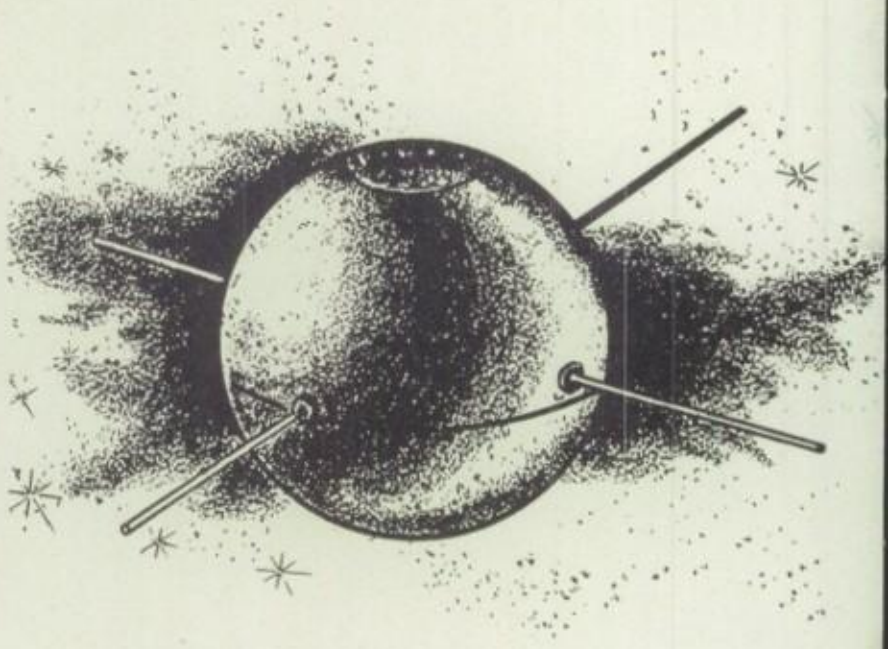


To fulfill ideas and to acquire experiences is the high aim of curriculum. Many types of courses are offered here at Fleming — courses for professional workers and for homemakers. Fleming's progressive curriculum continuously adapts itself to the new courses offered. This year the new buildings supply space for specialized language laboratories which include a German class introduced for the first time. The programmed math classes continue to gain in size and number.

The science laboratories are fully equipped with new and better facilities to serve the growing number of conscientious young scientists who enter through their doors. Minds as well as bodies profit from the girls' physical education program of modern dance, offered for the first time. Fleming's curriculum makes students more aware of opportunities and responsibilities as young adults searching for new horizons.

Curriculum

Enlarging horizons



Physics experiment intrigues Billy Clingenpeel and Sherry Cadd.

Alan Creasy and Johnny Long study microscopic plants in first year biology.

Science

xplore new horizons

The growing importance of science in the world today has engendered more emphasis on this aspect of our learning. In well-equipped laboratories advanced biology students studied comparative anatomy, chemistry students experimented by means of semimicro analysis introduced this year, and a unique physics class had two teachers who lectured alternately.

Aquatic animals studied by Anne Kepner, Martha Murdock, and Mike Carroll.

Jimmy Phlegar, Vicky Lyon, Berkeley McLendon and Chris Catron fill chemistry trays in the laboratory.

Sandra Brooks and Thomas Robinson examine teaching aids in trigonometry.

Math develops

Math

Several classes in the mathematics program were taught in a novel manner during the current year. Programming was used in algebra, geometry, and ninth grade arithmetic. Two or three days a week, three second year algebra classes met together in the general education room so that students could benefit from the lectures of Mrs. Sifford, Mrs. Walden and Mrs. Horton. An electronics class which met once a week was also offered for the first time, and there was a continuation of two contract classes which have been taught by the same teachers since their inception.

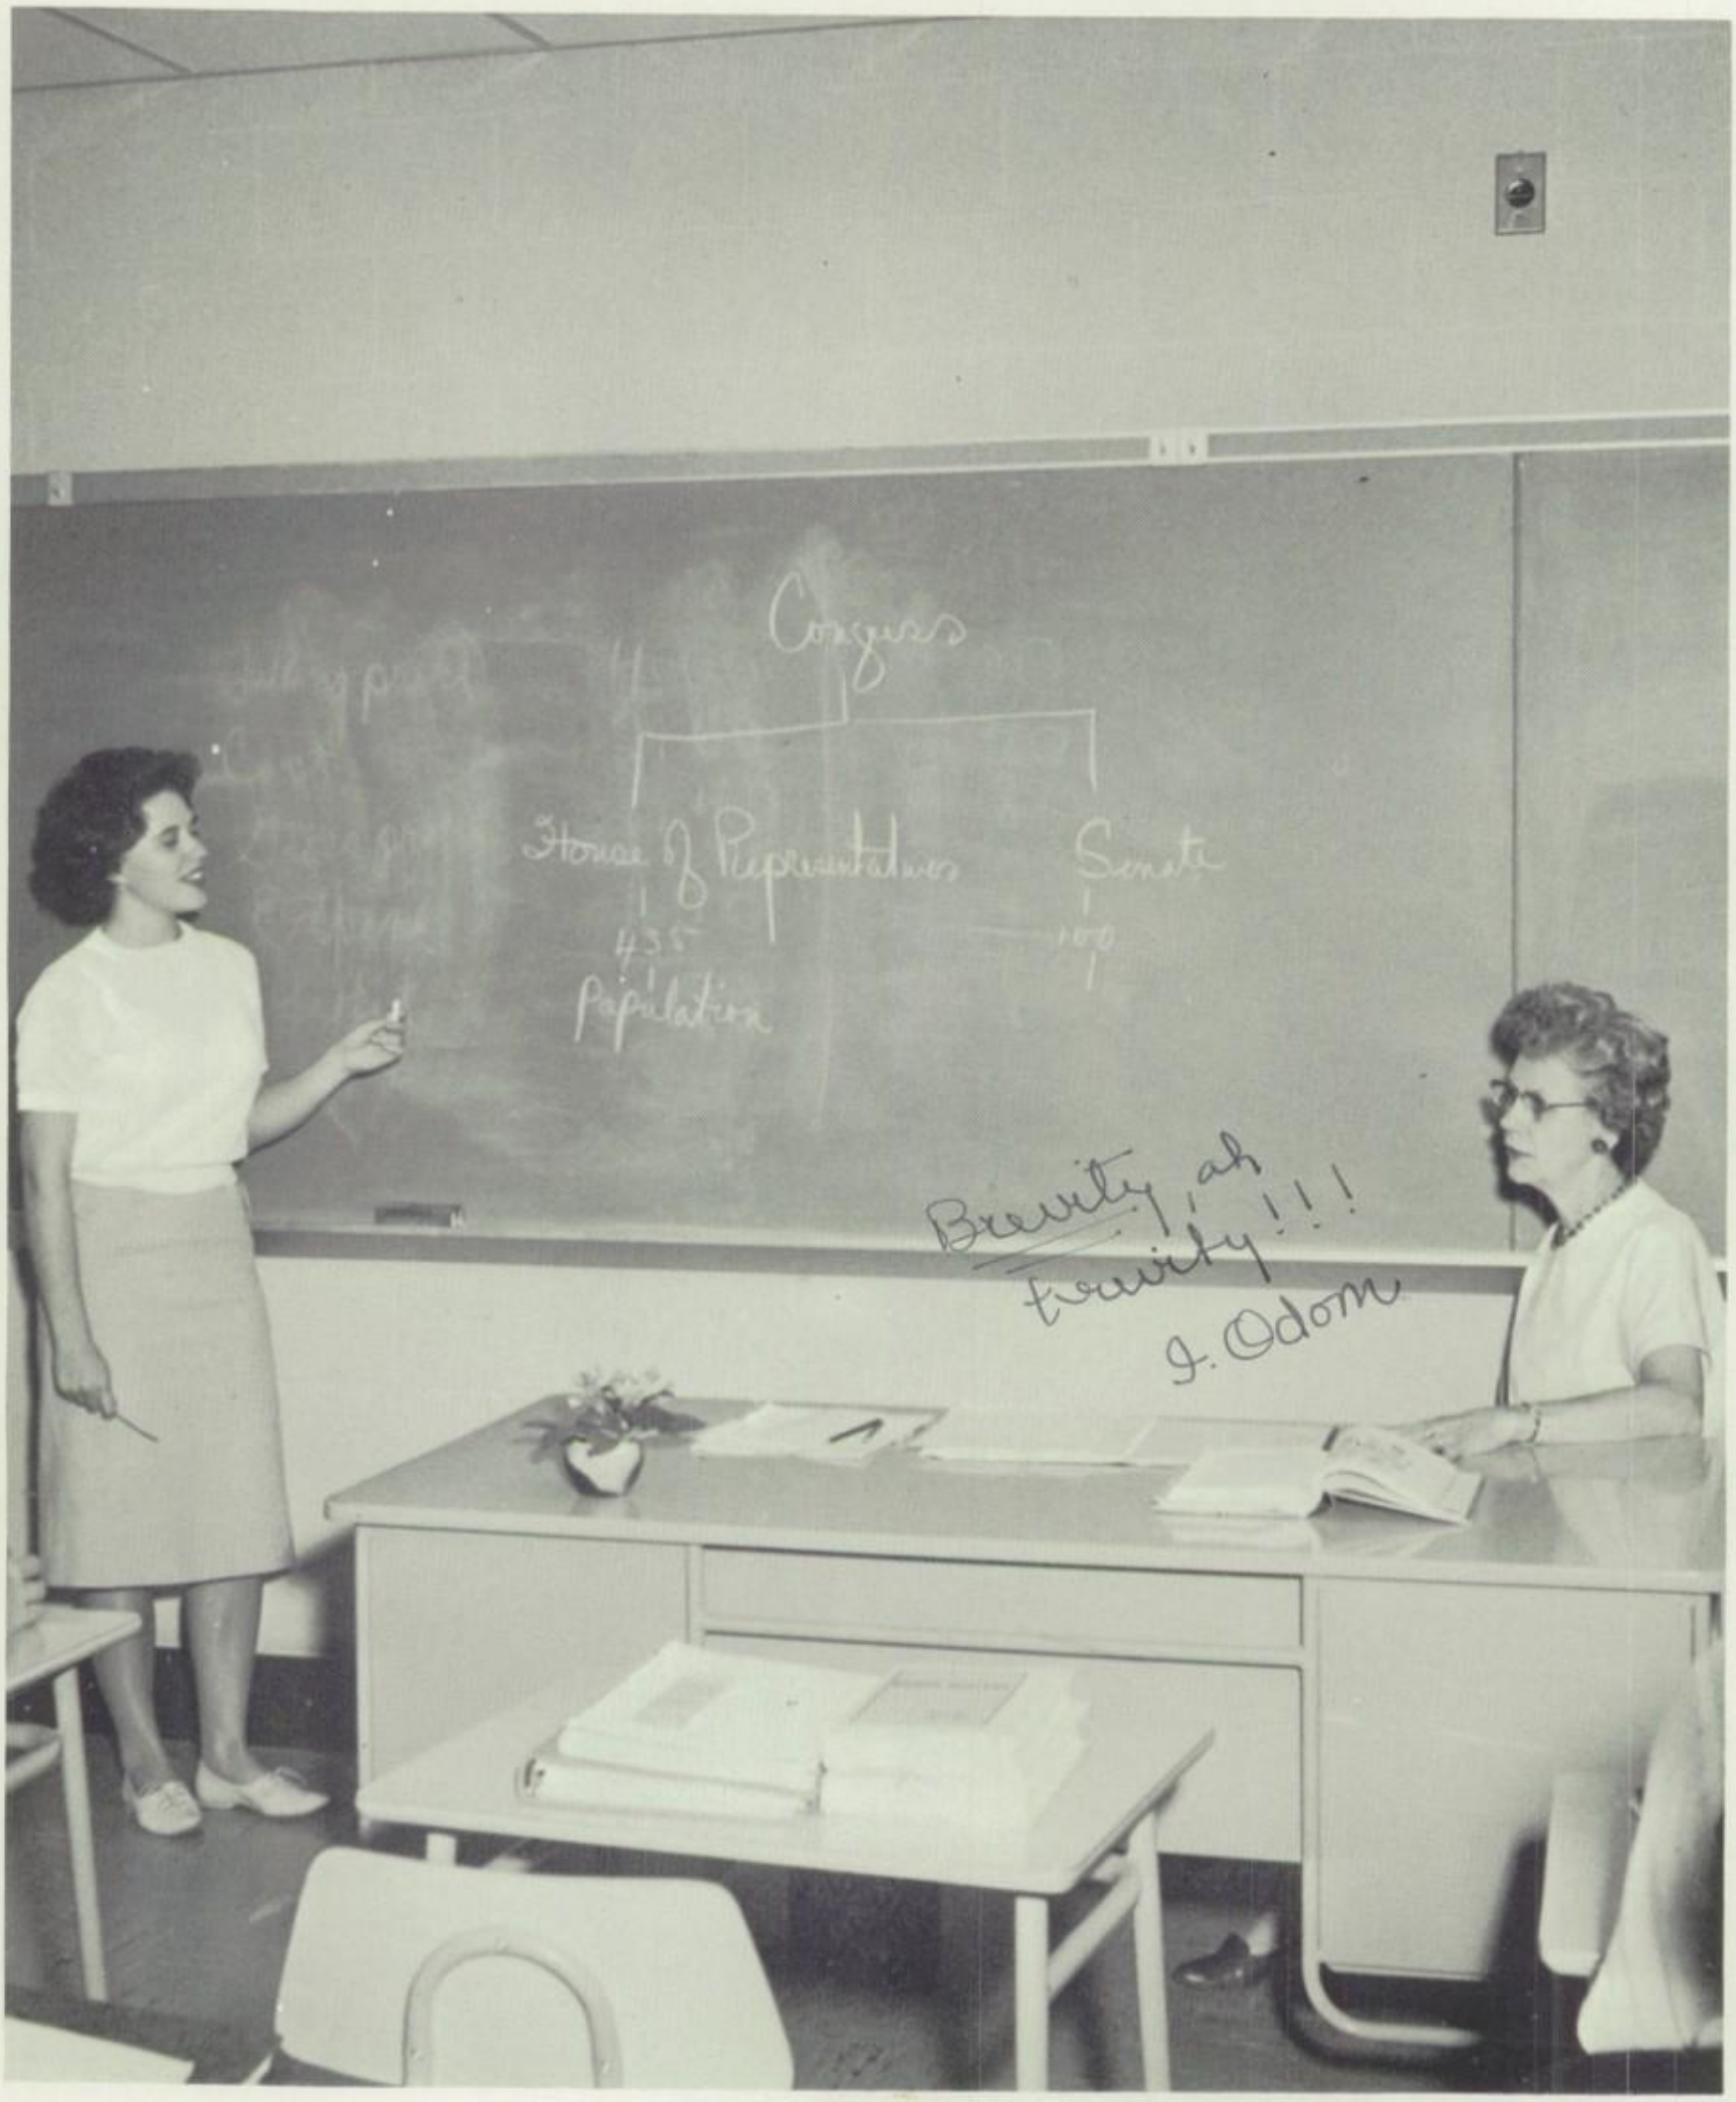
Mr. Freitag explains algebra problem to Deborah Gimbert.

Analytical thinking

Bobby Williams and Mrs. Walden solve a problem on the slide rule as David Stoner, Nancy Walters, and Richard Buckingham watch.

Students study past to improve future

Sandra Peregory summarizes the make-up of Congress in Mrs. Odom's government class.



In an effort to prepare for the future, students studied the past in American History and World History. A third course was Advanced History, limited to those students who excelled in first year history. Geography provide information concerning the everchanging world, and American Government pupils were instructed in the principles by which the country is governed.

Wayne Ferrell and Marilyn Smith apply knowledge they have acquired in geography class.

Linda Kerns and Peggy Carroll prepare a bulletin board depicting important events in American History.

Social Studies

English

Concerned with providing a basic foundation in grammar and composition, the English classes kept students busy conjugating verbs, expanding their vocabularies, and creating acceptable themes. Students of above-average ability were placed in accelerated classes, where they moved quickly through the subject matter and worked on additional assignments.

Mrs. Loomis broadens vocabulary of her students in her accelerated senior English class.

Larry Camper, Beverly Wood, Russell King, and Ellen Sutherland listen to Mr. Quinn as he explains rules of grammar.

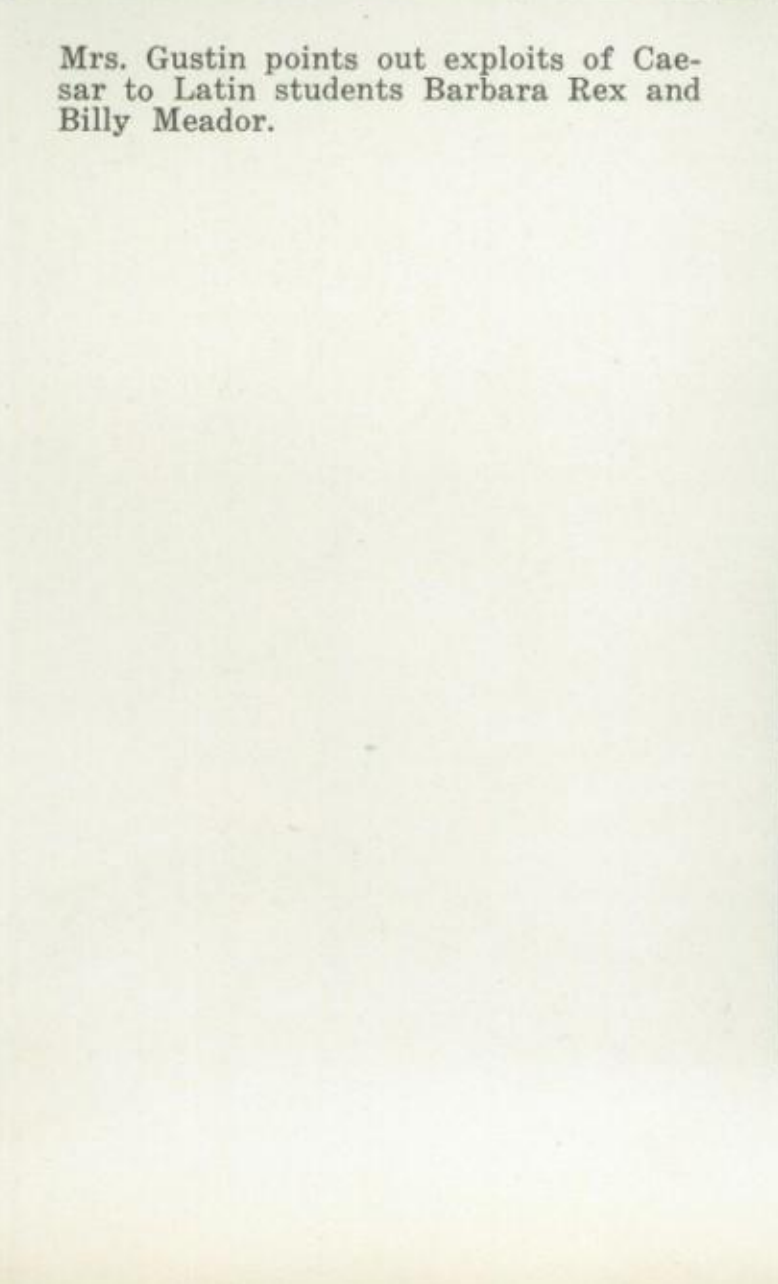
Miss Ferguson explains a grammar construction to Shirley Brown and Bryan Higgins in her sophomore English class.

Pete Pendleton and Pam Grubbs listen as Mr. Arrington discusses American literature.

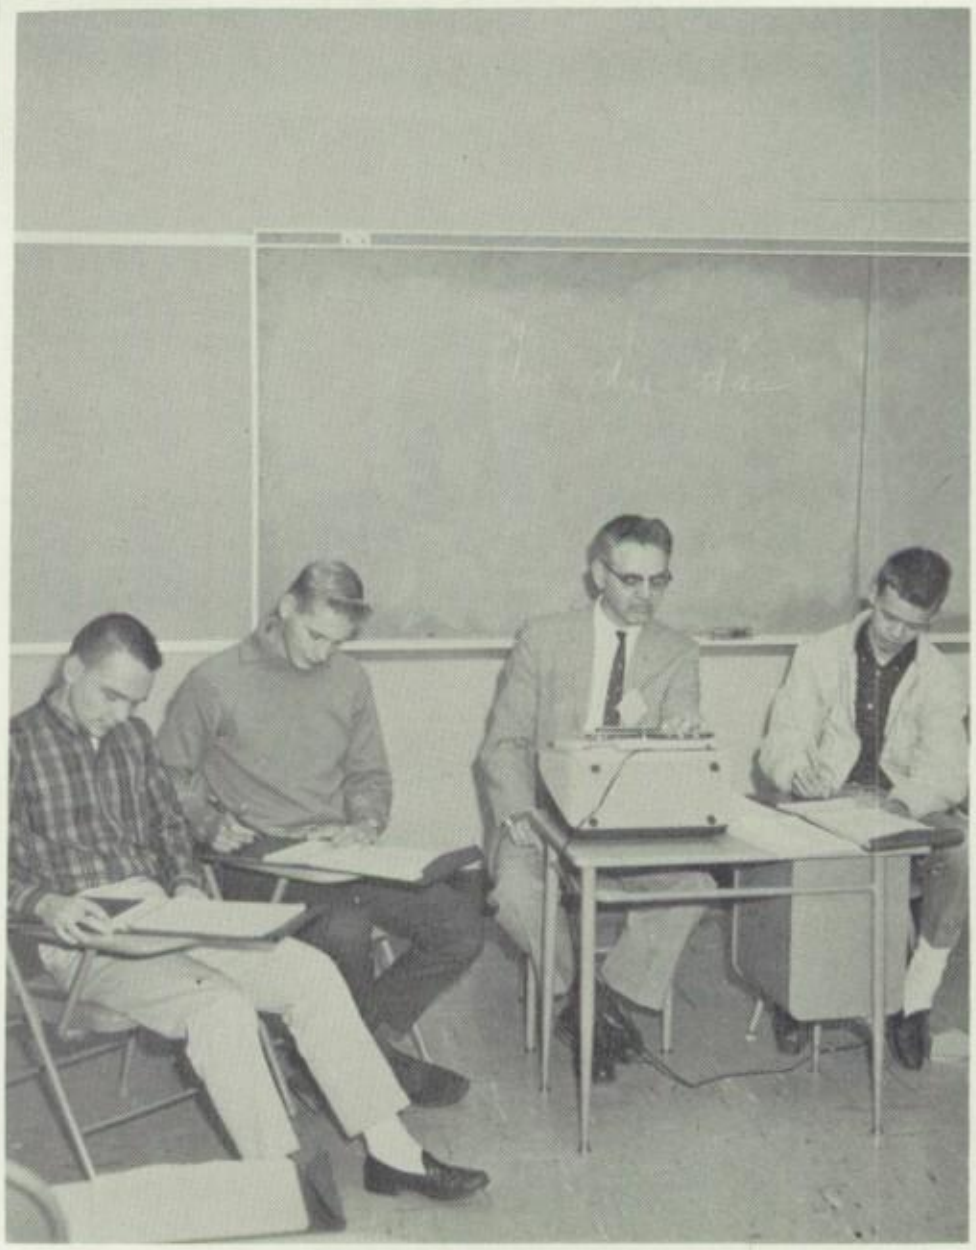
Command of language stressed by English

Languages

David Stoner, Bobby Williams, and Mike Ridenhour benefit from programmed text of the German class taught by Mr. Coulter.



Mrs. Gustin points out exploits of Caesar to Latin students Barbara Rex and Billy Meador.



Programming enhances languages

Strange-looking black folders displaying language techniques and students studying different lessons simultaneously were characteristic of the new programmed languages. As one of the two high schools in the country to offer this program, Fleming provided an opportunity for students to broaden their skills in grammar and phonetics through the use of individual manuels and tape-recorders. A new class in German was added to the classes in Latin, French, and Spanish to expand the language curriculum.

Barry Moss points out phonetic skills in the programmed French course to Diane Dickerson.

George Geiger conjugates a verb for Mrs. Patterson's second year Spanish class.

Vocational Office Training students Tootie Grieg, Brenda Saul, and Sandra Ray practice filing procedures.

Pam Grubbs and Carolyn Cole practice writing shorthand briefs on the board.

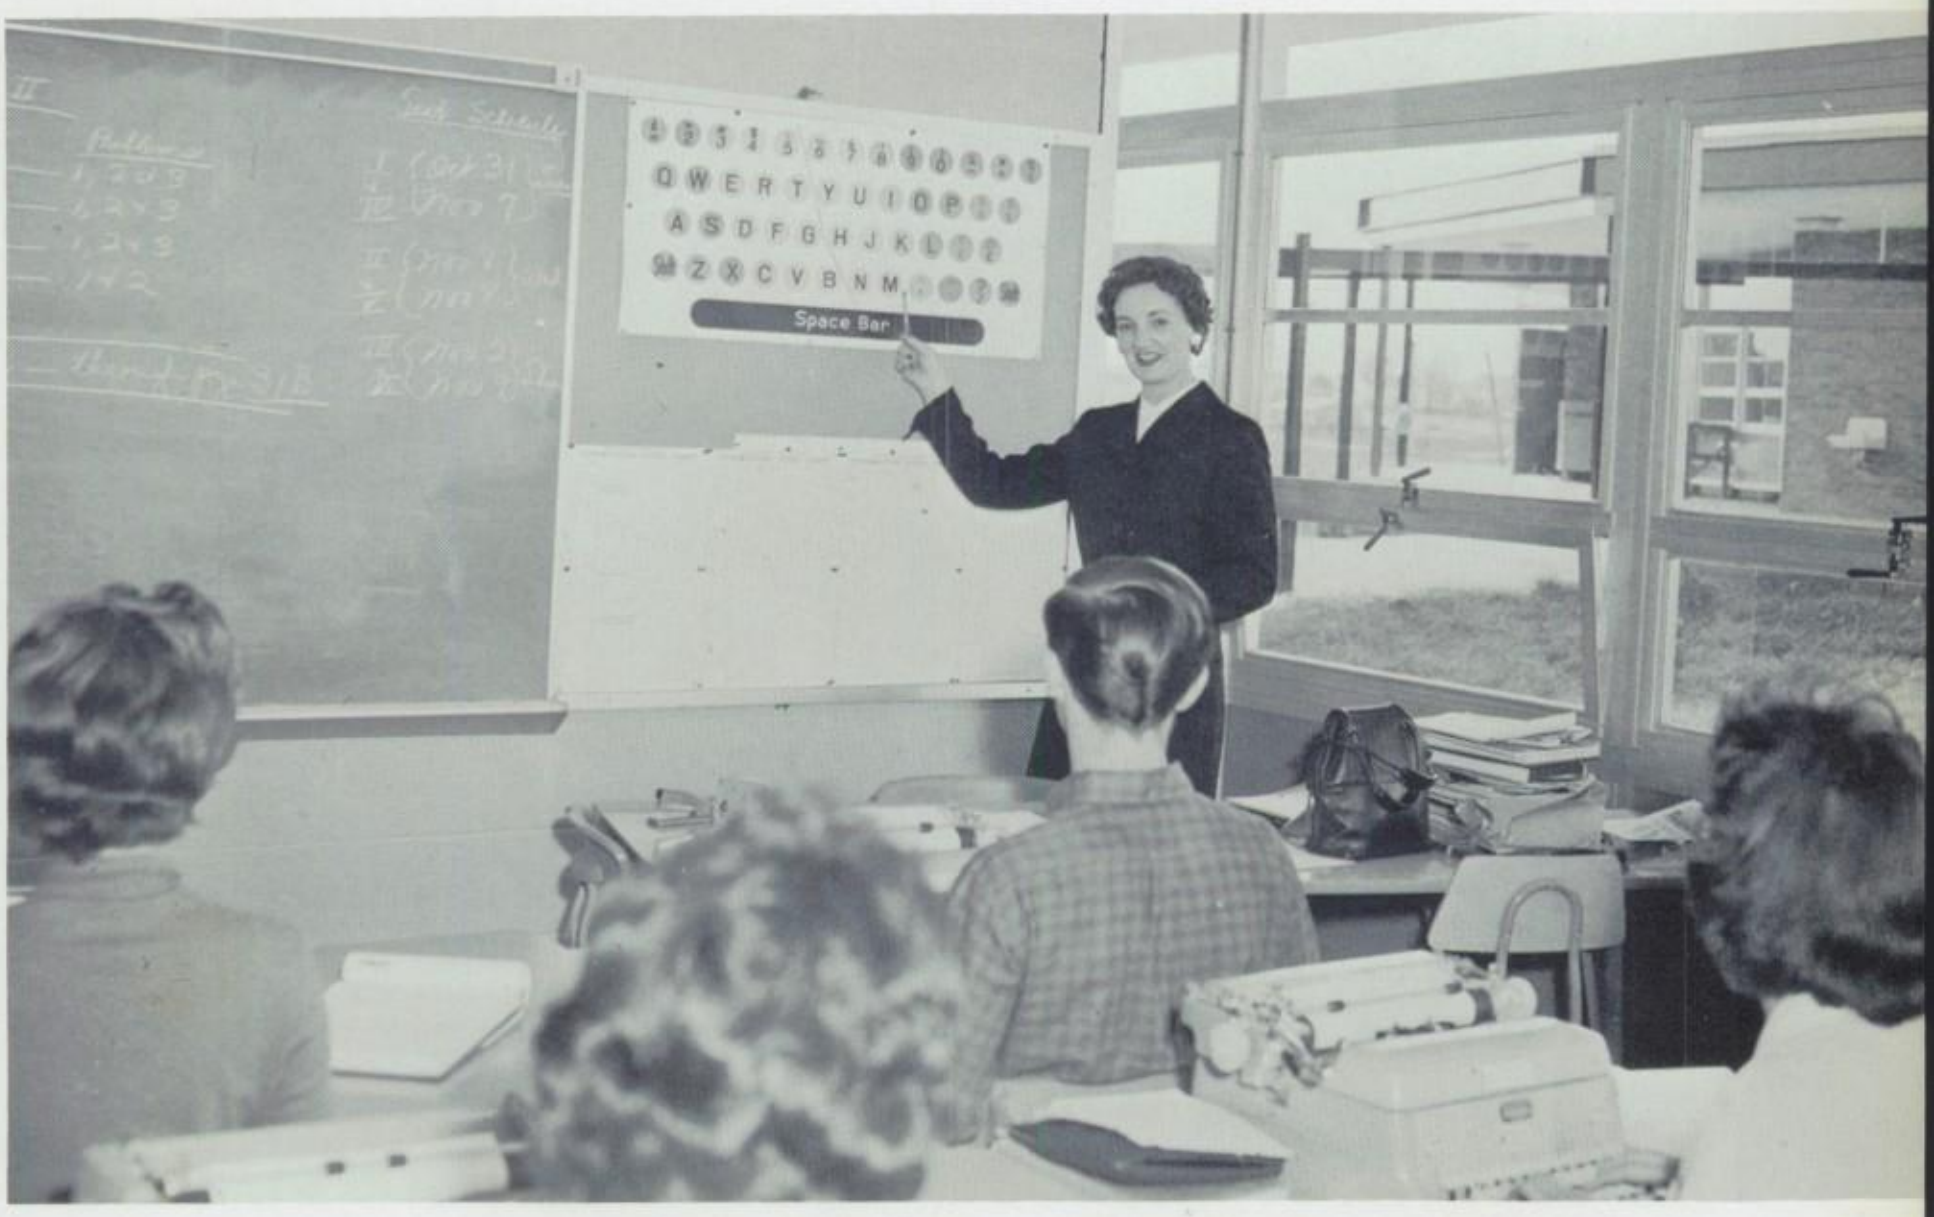
Specialized courses in business English, general business, typing and shorthand were offered to develop important skills essential to students desiring careers in the business world. The Vocational Office Training and Distributive Education courses gave opportunity to business students to gain knowledge in class and skill in practical on-the-job training.

Business

aim for commercial careers

Peggy Jo Falls demonstrates sales technique to Linda Byrd.

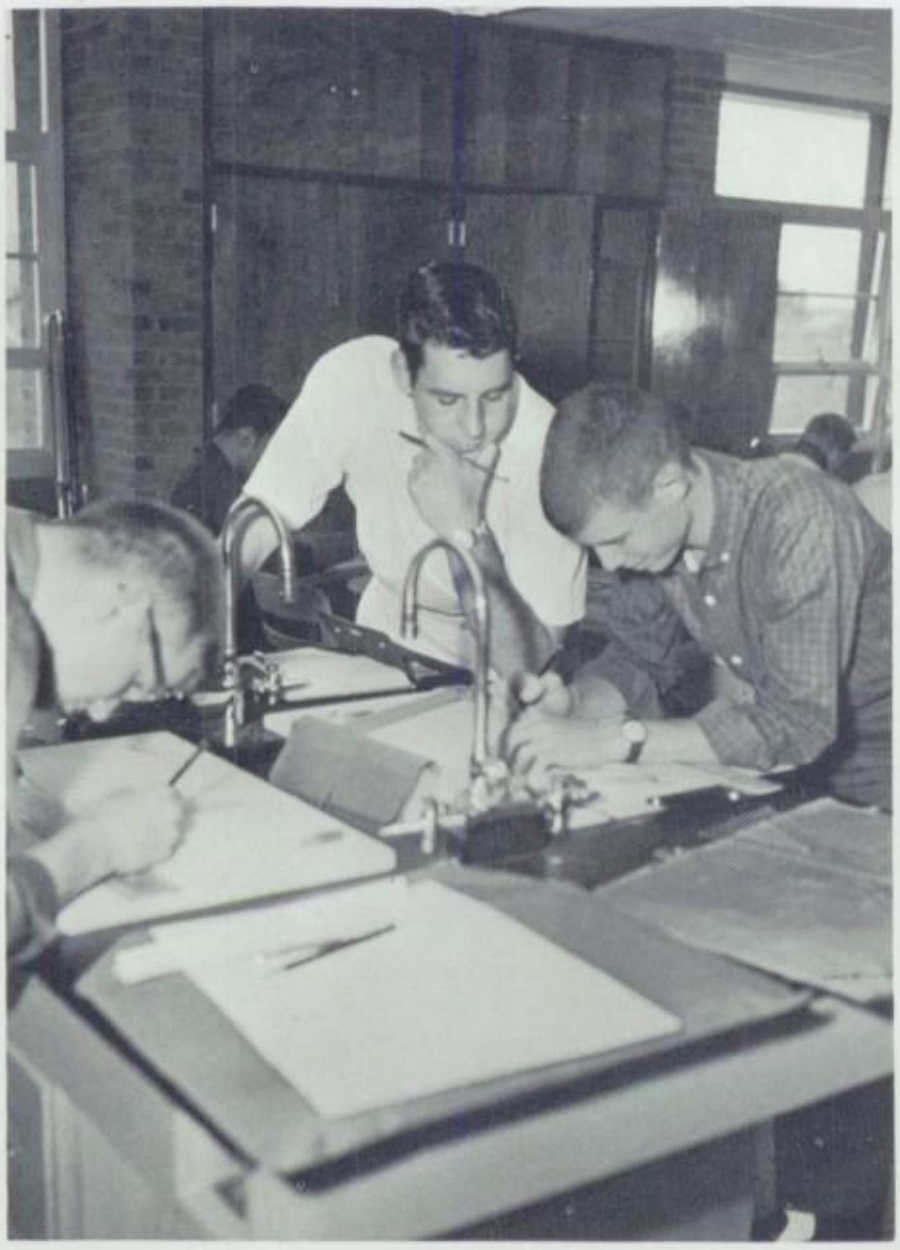
Mrs. Brown explains keyboard to first year typing class.



Mrs. Sloan supervises as Brenda Moore arranges a bulletin board in Home Economics class.

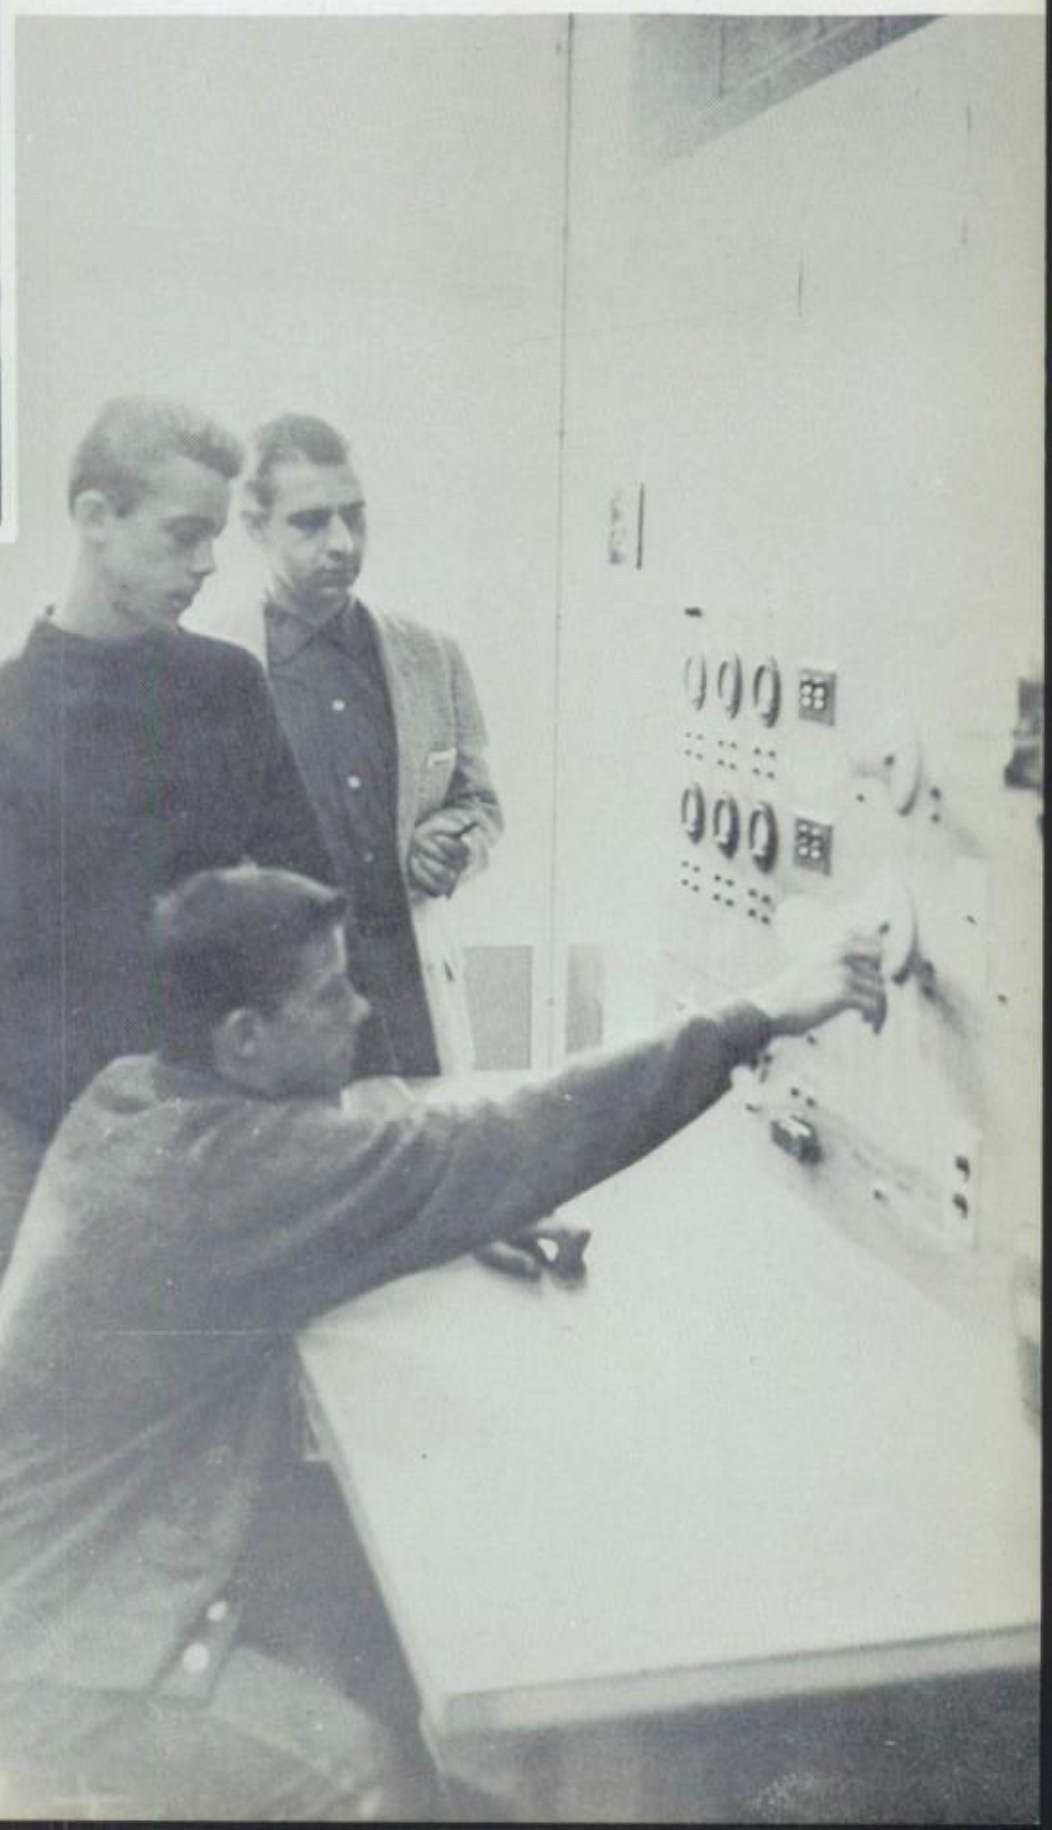
Practical Arts

develop skills for future



Endeavoring to develop skills helpful in every day living, Fleming's practical arts department offered courses applicable to varied interests. For the "Betty Crockers" of tomorrow, courses in home economics were offered. Classes in mechanical drawing and industrial arts were available to all students who wished to broaden their training and knowledge of skills needed in daily routines.

Mechanical art problem is solved by Don Brown, Dickie Moore and Bill Bradley.



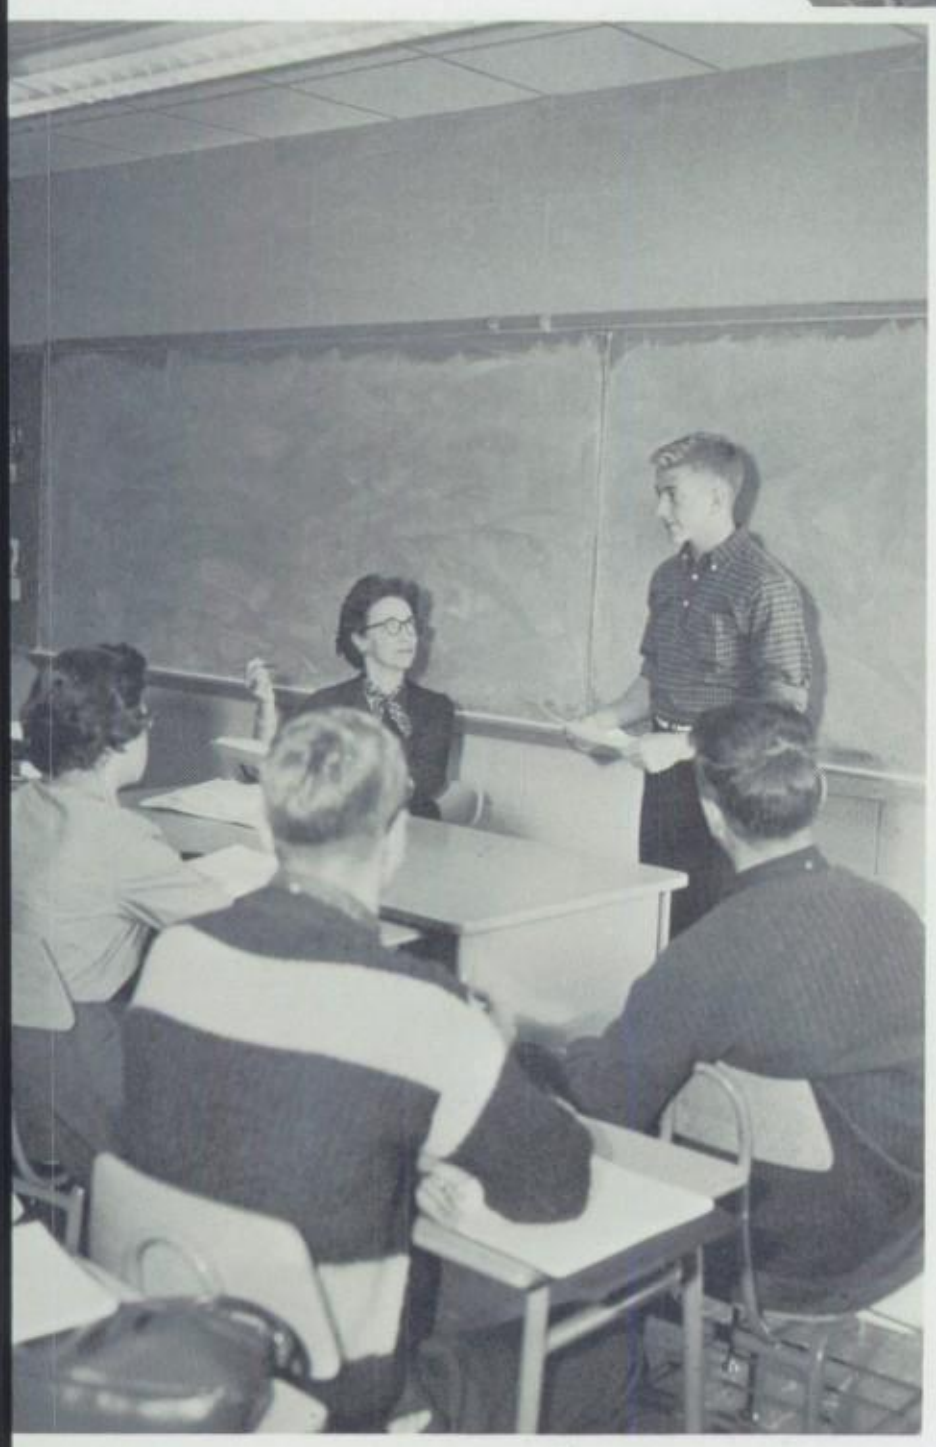
Mr. Hollenbach supervises as Gerald Craig and Charles Reese check reading on the electric meter in shop.

Individual talents cultivated in Fine Arts

The fine arts department began at a disadvantage this year since the electives building had not been completed. Working under makeshift circumstances, the art, band, choir, and speech departments made progress, but found their accomplishments greater after they moved into the finished quarters, which were fully equipped with new and complete facilities ready to cultivate the creative abilities and talents of their students.

Choir members rehearse Christmas music under Mrs. Webb's direction.

Art students work under the supervision of Mr. Egge and student teacher Miss Nelson.

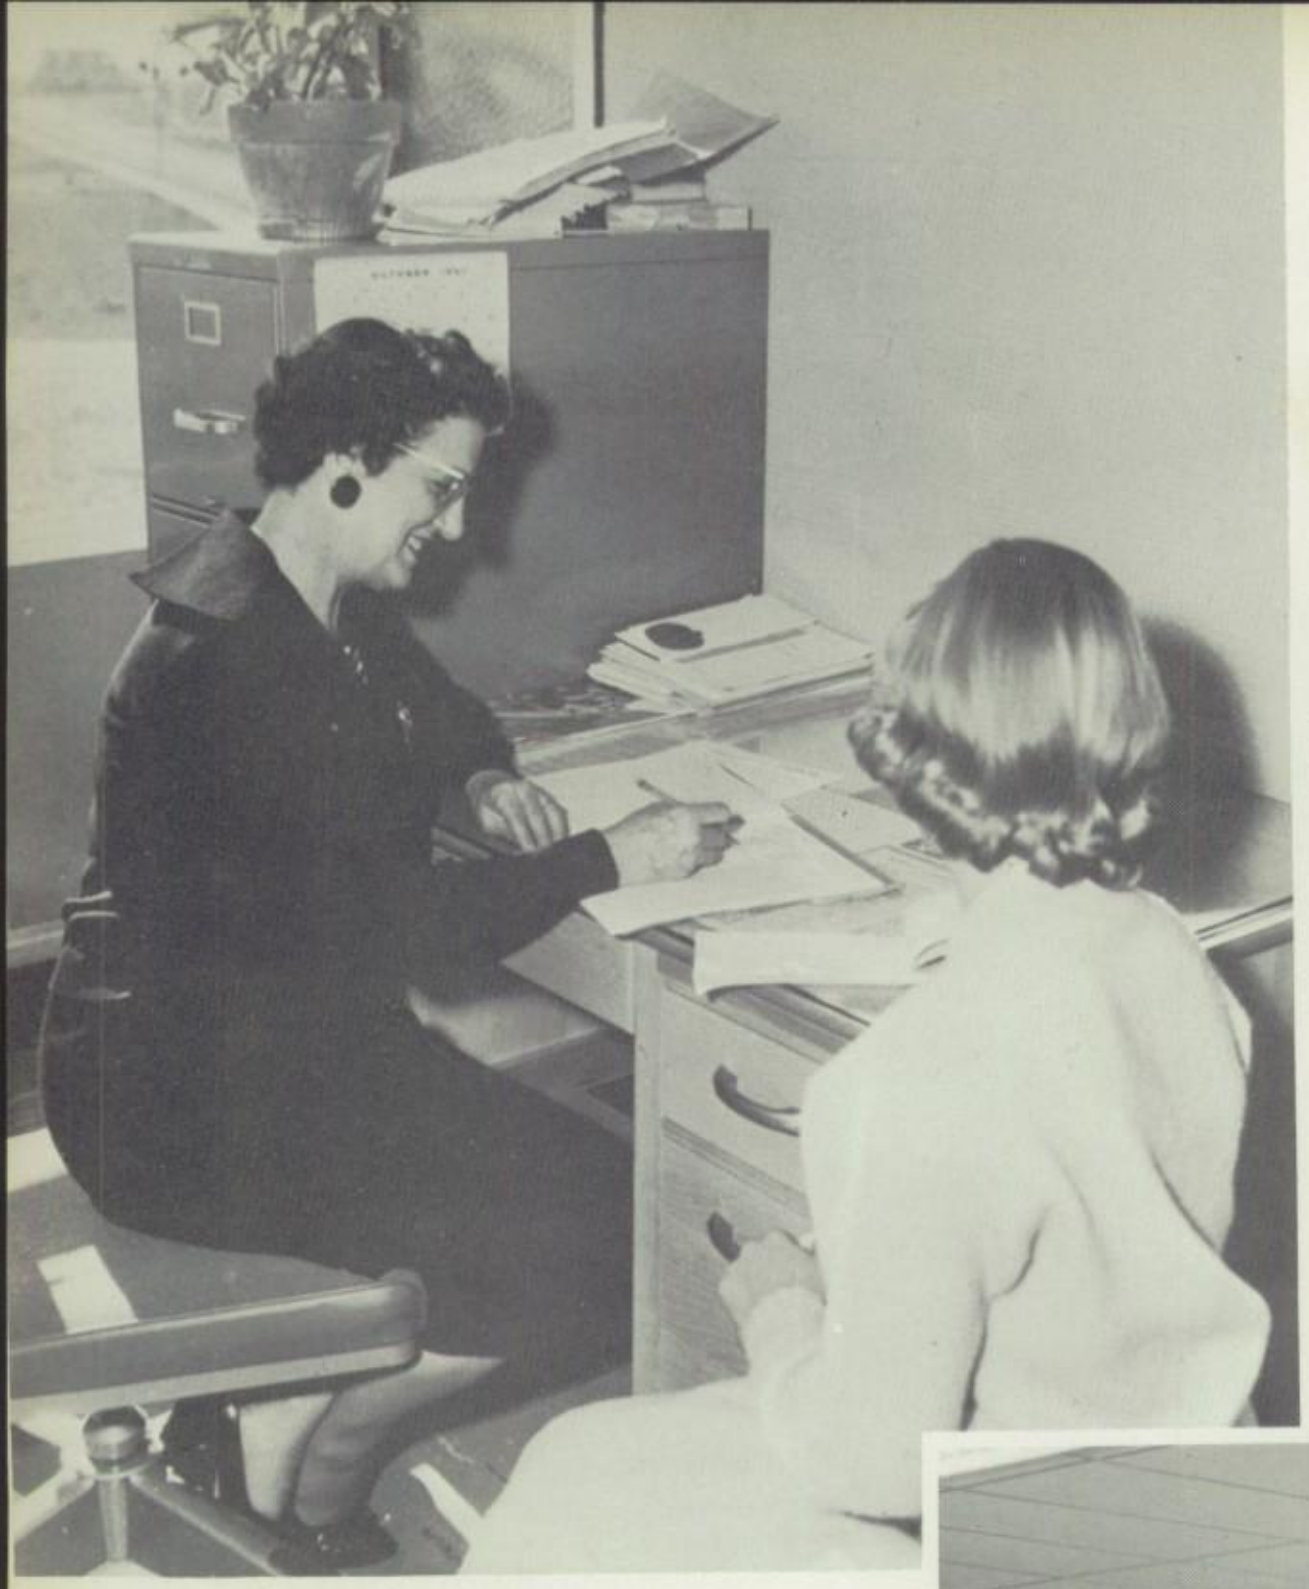


Mrs. Dickenson's speech class listens as Steve Cochran delivers his Voice of Democracy speech.

Fine Arts

Guidance

Students with problems about vocation, those desiring a change of schedule, and those making inquiries about College Board Examinations were the responsibilities of the guidance counselors. Each counselor handled the guidance for one unit, with the assistance of Mr. Graybill as coordinator.



Toni Sarner receives advice on curriculum from Mrs. Boyd.

Mr. Graybill explains to Juniors the graph used in Sequential Test of Educational Progress.

Mrs. Odom, Mr. Graybill, Miss Stone, Mr. Elliot and Mrs. Boyd discuss students' records.

Students receive advice on future

Driver training students Wayne Pugh, Hubert Fleenor and Billy Sink prepare to drive under the supervision of Mr. French.

Good sportsmanship is emphasized

Physical Education

Mr. French supervises a touch football game.

Sharon Cross and Susan Lyon take a bully as Janice Graybill, Gabrielle Campbell and Brenda Walker stand ready to assist.

With muscular strength and coordination as their goal, students participated in various exercises and sports in the physical education program. Boys and girls engaged in intramural softball, basketball, and volleyball games; boys added football, wrestling, and track to their list.

Even before the beginning of school, the faculty began the bewildering task of organizing material and equipment in new classrooms and making plans for the supervision and instruction of the nearly one thousand students who entered the new school for the first time in the fall. As the year wore on, they gave of themselves in instruction, in testing, in encouraging and often in prodding.

After the school day was over, a great many spent extra hours sponsoring clubs for the students and attending school affairs. Then, as the year came to an end and the students had left, they realized that the cycle must be faced again; but they did so willingly because as teachers they have the foresight and understanding to look beyond the horizon and plan for tomorrow by preparing students who will soon occupy places in the adult world.

William Fleming High School refers not only to modern buildings spread over a spacious campus, new equipment and enlarged curriculum, but also to the students who form the soul of our school. Without their chatter in its halls, their accomplishments and sometimes failures, their enthusiasm and pride at school events, and their minds eager to grasp knowledge of the world around them, the school would merely be an empty shell.

This year an increase in the number of new students plus the separate units brought a challenge to each student to maintain the spirit of unity and fellowship which is so characteristic of Fleming. The students had the added responsibility of setting the pace for the years to come and they chose not to stand still but to go beyond the bounding line of provincialism and indifference to worthier ideals.

Senior Officers Headed By Johnny Wood

Caps and gowns! As seniors took measurements for these cherished symbols of their progress and success, they stopped to recall the work, the play, and the friendships that made it all possible. They remembered their animation last fall when they first saw the new buildings with the brilliant orange doors and black sidewalks.

They remembered their ecstacy when using the beautiful new gymnasium for exciting sports events and memorable dances. Those familiar faces . . . the themes . . . the Senior Assembly . . . Senior Day . . . the Prom . . . graduation . . . all will long be remembered by each senior; for although, individually, these are not paramount, together they are vitally important in creating that spirit which has become a tradition in William Fleming.

Senior class officers are Sherry Cadd, Sandra Carroll, Pat Wall, secretaries; Doug Kingery, treasurer; Johnny Wood, president; Gordon Conner, Bill Higgins, and Joe Wilkerson, vice presidents.

Jimmy Woody rescues books for Cathy Brown.

Mr. Miller delivers long awaited senior rings to Ginger Gevrekian and Jimmy Crutchfield.

Mrs. Loomis gives some helpful suggestions on senior theme to Dianne Beard.

Honor graduates for 1962 are JoAnn Jamison, Nancy Walters, Cheryl Corbell, and Dianne Beard.

The Junior Class

Their third year of high school found juniors looking ahead with many plans and hopes. Gone were the sophomore days of rushing frantically through buildings looking for rooms that always seemed to be displaced. No longer were they strangers, but teammates working together in various projects ... student government, plays, contests, the all-important Junior Assembly, and the highlight of the social year, the Junior-Senior Prom. Gaiety, fun, and laughter mixed with responsibility, packed their junior year, but with its close, they anxiously began anticipating the coveted position of seniors and another great year at William Fleming High School.

support to Band

Reorganizing each activity into three separate clubs, one for each unit, posed a problem and hampered many groups in the initial days of this session; but as the year progressed each club was soon holding regular meetings and activities.

A vital phase of high school life, these organizations served to strengthen unity among students and teachers, encouraged leadership, integrity, responsibility and loyalty and served as modes of fun and fellowship for the students.

In many cases such as the Science Club, History Club and language clubs these activities supplemented curriculum and provided interested students an opportunity to expand this knowledege and challenged them to strive for personal as well as group accomplishments. But more important these activities broadened their experience and outlook by enabling the students to look beyond the windows of William Fleming, even beyond the horizon, to bigger and better vistas.

Fulfilling Capacities And Ideals

JoAnn Jamison explains result of honor code survey to executive council of S. C. A.

Endeavoring to promote better school spirit through responsibilities, the S. C. A. set up an honor system, including a code of ethics as one of their first projects. As a major project, the student government introduced a student directory and handbook to Fleming for the first time. Planning the Christmas Dance, revising the honor point system, and distributing Christmas baskets were some of the S. C. A.'s activities for 1962.

JoAnn Jamison and Bobby Williams sell programs for the Beta Club at a home football game.

Stressing good citizenship, leadership, and high scholastic averages, the Beta Club represented a goal for the underclassmen and an achievement for the qualified upperclassmen. The club sold football programs at the games and won first prize with its Homecoming float. The highlight of the year was the banquet for the new members at Preston Park Recreation Center.

Working to capture the year's events on paper the Colonel staff set up shop in a new room in Smith Hall to begin the year's project. Working together to publish an annual each member of the staff saw the importance of doing his job well whether it was writing copy, typing, drawing layout, or managing finances. Overseeing the entire production, the editor, JoAnn Jamison, and sponsor, Miss Stone, guided and aided the other members in their work.

Efficiency is achieved by Donna Dowdy, Dorothy Boyd, and Brenda Martin of the layout staff.

Sabre publicizes school events

Miss Ferguson, sponsor, and co-editors Nancy Walters and Dianne Beard talk over latest edition.

Presenting a colorful account of the activities and special events at Fleming, the Sabre staff produced many fine newspapers during the year. Their long hours of writing and picture-taking were rewarded by the excellent results. This year's staff varied the make-up of the paper by using the "floating title" on the front page. The editoral page was also improved with more emphasis on specific events and problems. Members of the Sabre staff attended the S. I. P. A. convention in April.

Reporters Joan Johns, Doris Martin, Given Wood, Judi Selph, Sherry Cadd, Patti Graybill, Barry Woodford work to get their articles in on time.

Becky Smith practices her speech for the American Legion Oratorical contest in which she won first place.

Literary Club

Striving to bring top honors to Fleming each year is the goal of the Literary Club. With Mrs. Genevieve Dickinson as sponsor the club is composed of students who are interested in any form of literary work. Winners are produced in debating, prose and poetry reading, as well as various oratorical contests in the city and state. Berkeley McLendon brought recognition to Fleming by placing second in the state Voice of Democracy contest. Working closely with the Thespians the Literary Club enjoys the formal "Snowball dance" each year as one of its many activities during the year.

Before full houses and attentive audiences the Thespians spot lighted the 1961-62 season under the capable direction of Mrs. Genevieve Dickinson. The spring play of '61 was January Thaw. The fall presentation of Our Town was a smash hit, playing two nights. For the third year in a row, Stephen Vincent Benet's "A Child is Born" was presented. Berkeley McLendon, serving as president of the organization and as star of several productions, received many personal awards and much recognition for the department.

Ring Dance symbolic for seniors

With the long-awaited ring figure high-lighting the evening, the Ring Dance was the topic of interest for many seniors January 23rd. The senior officers led the class in the figure in which each senior was presented his ring by his date. The Divots supplied music for the dance sponsored by the senior class. Couples enjoyed dancing to the popular music from eight till twelve.

Formed in December, the Spanish Club met with a Spanish theme for one of the month's programs and joined the Patrick Henry club for a Christmas meeting. The club's activities ended in the spring with an outing. At mid-term Fleming's first French Club went into full swing promoting the French language and its cultural advantages. The club met with the clubs of Jefferson and Patrick Henry to gain new ideas for organization. The spring outing was a well-earned reward for the Year's work.

Future Teachers gain teaching experience

Cindy Menefee does practice teaching in eleventh grade English class as Miss Williams looks on.

With visions of dedicating their lives to education, Fleming's Future Teachers of America participated in activities to broaden their interest and understanding of the teaching profession. The girls had the opportunity to observe classes in elementary and high schools and talk to the teachers to gain an understanding of their techniques. The club also sponsored a tea in the fall honoring the faculty and one in the spring to recognize the honor graduates.

Fleming's Future Business Leaders of America began an active year by sending delegates, Delores Tolley, Pat Duncan and Wanda Lucado, to the regional planning session at Radford College in November. A pot-luck supper was held for the installation of officers. In March another regional convention took place at Radford College. Fleming's F. B. L. A. club acted as host at the state convention at Hotel Roanoke in April. The year's activities were rounded out with a banquet.

Distributive Education trains for future

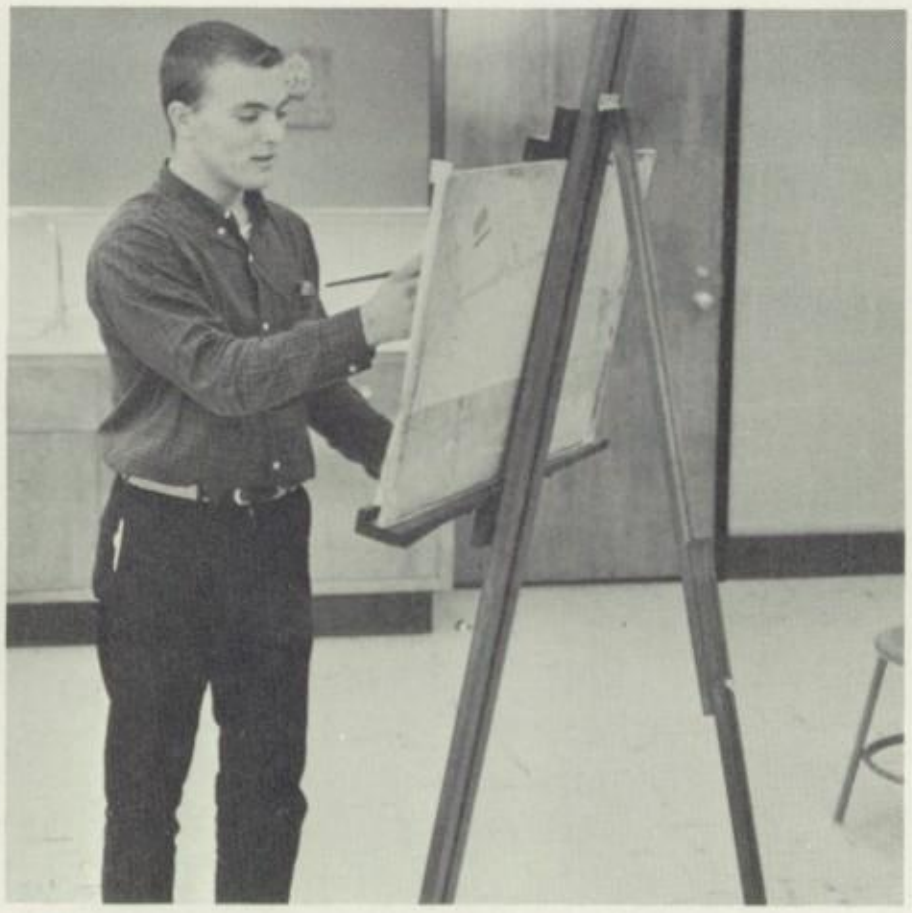
Cherly Heath, Almira Lilly, Margaret Sink learn sales techniques on the job.

With a record of three outstanding awards last year, the D. E. Club looked forward to a repeat of their success. These awards were announced during the State Leadership Conference held in Richmond June 20-27. The club was named the District Honor Club, was recognized for their outstanding club project, and was rated second place in the creative display. On February 7, Fleming's club was host for the District Conference, and attended the State Conference in March held at Hotel Roanoke. Their annual employer-employee banquet was held in April and proved to be a high-light of the year's activities.

Christmas Dance adds to season festivity

Brightly decorated, the cafetorium was the scene of Fleming's first Christmas Dance in the new school. Because of the uncertainty of the readiness of the buildings, the last minute preparations heightened the excitement of the S. C. A. sponsored Christmas Dance for many anxious students. The Spinners provided music. Rain and the late decision to hold the affair prohibited the presence of many students.

Carol Bell and Steve Tobias, Sandra Carroll and Bobby Woodford enjoy the music at the Christmas Dance.



Fred Wallenfelz works on one of the art clubs projects, a landscape painting for the teacher's lounge.

Visiting the Virginia Art Museum at Richmond in the spring was the Art Club's main event. The club raised money for the trip by having a bake sale. Projects were started by the club to provide paintings for the teachers' lounges and deans' offices in each unit. The club also designed a monogram for the school baseball.

Voice of Christian youth inspires students

Although a bit late in organizing, the Voice of Christian Youth accomplished worthwhile projects, the most important of which was the undertaking of entering a float in the Roanoke City Christmas Parade November 25. Interesting programs planned by Peggy Hayes and Gail Quinn featured outside speakers and selected films, both of which served to bring about a broader understanding of the Bible. Throughout the year social gatherings lightened the more serious themes.

Lynn Shelton and Pat Wall sign up for Y-Teen pot luck supper with Mrs. Jesse.

In order to make a better world, the Y-Teens strove to build character in their members. Through projects such as Christmas baskets and collecting money for the March of Dimes, the girls learned the rewards of helping people in need. By planning and participation in devotional programs Y-Teen girls gained valuable experience and strengthened their Christian beliefs. In workshops they were given advice on ways to improve their club and on such matters as vocation, marriage, jobs, and college.

Hi-Y fills three conference offices

Senior Hi-Y members attended the Western District Conference held at Patrick Henry in December. Two Fleming boys, Pete Pendleton and Bobby Biggs, were elected to the conference offices of president and vice-president, respectively. Chuck Johnson, local secretary, was a candidate for Clerk of the Senate in the Model General Assembly. A new project started by the Hi-Y members was the asking of the blessing at all the lunch periods.

Rhythm and Romance Create Valentine Spirit

1962 sweetheart couples are seniors Sandra Carroll and Barry Woodford, juniors Carolyn Cole and Richard Meador, and sophomores Linda Banton and Bill White.

Signs of the Valentine spirit soared at the annual Sweetheart Dance. The theme, "Rhythms in Romance", was carried out in the music of Little Ricky and the Romans and the traditional decorations of red and white.

Science Club develops scientists

Producing high caliber, award winning science fair projects was the primary aim of the Science Club. Each month the club sponsored a physical, biological or chemistry display in one of the laboratory's display cases. The entire club competed for the Miller Award given on the state level to the most outstanding club. The club also participated with area clubs in preparing a Science Fair documentary film showing the preliminary steps in producing a winning project.

Band

"The only way to get to the top is to climb; the only way to stay there is to work." This motto was stressed many times during Mr. Kitchen's fifth year as band director. Excitement filled the air as the eighty-five piece marching band strutted down the field at the first football game of the year. Later in the season, the band performed a concert for the P. T. A. convention at the Mosque Theater in Richmond.

Besides participating in seven football games and the Southwestern Band Festival, the band managed to perform in seven concerts, including the District Festival in Lynchburg. The year came to a climax when the group marched at the annual Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington, D. C.

The ballroom of Hotel Roanoke echoed with the harmonious sound of the Fleming Dance Band as they played for the Junior Miss Virginia Pageant. Similar scenes took place throughout the year as the dance band continued to grow in popularity and efficiency. The greatest honor of the year was the invitation to play for the National Junior Miss Pageant in Mobile, Alabama.

Leading students in school songs and supplying harmony and assurance to home basketball games were only a small portion of the pep band's 1962 activities. Participating in pep assemblies, the Homecoming bonfire, and the Republican State Convention were some of the year's highlights. Spirit was aroused at the National Business College Games and the Grand Opening of the Starland Bowling Center by the vivacity of the Pep Band.

In performances with the fire-twirlers, Charlotte Carter and Brenda Saul, created a thrilling spectacle for the onlookers. Long summer practices and hours of work during school were rewarded as these majorettes marched in the Shrine and the Christmas Parades. The fun of slumber parties and the Christmas Banquet added to the enjoyment of their activities.

Magic of spring captured by Spring Formal

With the arrival of spring, students donned their best dress and any bad memories of winter were forgotten as the couples danced at the Spring Formal.

Jr. Red Cross sponsors project for Veterans

To serve the community and nation and to develop better human r e l a t i o n s by world-wide service was the goal of the 1961-62 Junior Red Cross. To accomplish this high aim such projects as baking cookies for the Veterans Hospital were carried out. Entries were sent in for the International Art Exhibit which the National Red Cross sponsors annually. The object of this was to give foreign students an idea of the read America. Also on the calendar was a visit to the Blood Center. The year ended with the club sponsorship of the Children's Fund.

daily practice

With many concerts centered around the Christmas season, Fleming's large choir of ninety-two voices performed for the Williamson Road Woman's Club and the Rotary Club. The choir members performed a series of short concerts at the Crossroads Mall. As always, the height of this season's activities was the annual concert at Huntington Court Methodist Church which included Christmas selections centered around the familiar "'Song of Christmas." Not least among the important events of the choir was participation in the flag-raising ceremony. Additional activities included taking part in the school variety show, the spring concert, and graduation exercises.

Pep Club adds thrill to home games

Excitement is aroused at basketball games.

Lively pep rallies encouraged by the Pep Club aroused school spirit and helped cheer the teams on to victory. The Pep Club decorated a Homecoming Float which won second place and it also decorated the goal posts at all home football games. Pep Club members served as hostesses as the new students entered James Breckinridge Junior High School in the fall. The club sponsored bake sales and rummage sales to raise money for its projects and took buses to out of town football games to encourage game attendance.

Fulfillment of junior class planning and the fulfillment of many seniors' dreams were embodied in the annual Junior-Senior Prom. Weeks before the Prom night, May 12, students were busily preparing for it. Juniors worked hard to get the invitations ready for the printer and spent much time securing a band. Seniors, remembering the work of their junior year, relaxed and enjoyed the whole event. The success of the Prom was evident from the many happy expressions and the excitement that remained long after the dance was over.

Carolyn Cole and her mother decide this is the dress for the Prom.

Sportsmanship and school spirit among the students were the major goals the William Fleming Varsity Club aimed for. This campaign proved successful in organizing the school spirit and in creating a more cooperative feeling among the students. Only those boys who fulfilled the requirements and proved their ability by earning letters were eligible for membership.

Girls' Monogram Club displays sportsmanship

Beginning its fifth year at Fleming, the Girls' Monogram Club strove to promote new sports and develop leadership among the girls. To help raise money, the G. M. C. sold candy and drinks at all home baseball games. The money went for awards and the outing at Douthat State Park at the end of the year. Among the year's projects were sponsoring a bowling team and helping the G. A. A. form teams in intramural sports.

Co-sponsored by Miss Minton and Mrs. Berry, the G. A. A. worked diligently to get more students interested in girls athletics. New members were welcomed into the club at a spaghetti supper at the beginning of the year. Throughout the year they sponsored intramural volleyball and basketball games. Ping-pong and badminton was also offered to girls who wanted to earn extra points. On the agenda was the Sweetheart Dance and a hop to help raise money. The biggest project of the year was a Physical Education demonstration, which was open to the public and which featured all phases of girls' athletics.

Whether on the football field, basketball or tennis court, the wrestling mats or the baseball diamond, the Colonels faced each foe with a spirit of sportsmanship and determination which radiated to and touched the entire student body. We turned out in masses whether in victory or defeat to cheer the Colonels and William Fleming High. The Lady Colonels, too, tasted the fruits of victory. Spring sports—track, golf, tennis and baseball—climaxed the year's program. Each victory drew us closer to our goals as we looked to the future and our New Horizons.

Exhibit School Spirit By Fighting To Win . . .

William Fleming 7 William Byrd 7

A 7-7 tie was the result of the punchless William Fleming and William Byrd game. Neither team showed any offense, each scored after recovering a fumble. Byrd took the lead early in the second period when Dowdy ran 28 yards into the end zone. Fleming scored in the third period when McCarty took a fourth down sneak over for the T. D. Wall grabbed a pitch off right end for the tieing point. At right Jerry Dearing (60) sprints in an effort to escape Byrd's Bates (44) and Bryant (59).

William Fleming 6 E. C. Glass 41

Fumbles and unalertness cost the Colonels a 41-6 morale breaking defeat in the Fleming-Glass game. Glass scored 3 touchdowns in the first period to blow the game wide open. Fleming scored its only touchdown late in the final period when quarterback Barry McCarty directed an 83 yard drive to paydirt. Below Fleming's Ferrell (65) and Key (94) knock Glass's Lampman (15) out of bounds as Meador (99) rushes to assist.

William Fleming 7 Patrick Henry 14

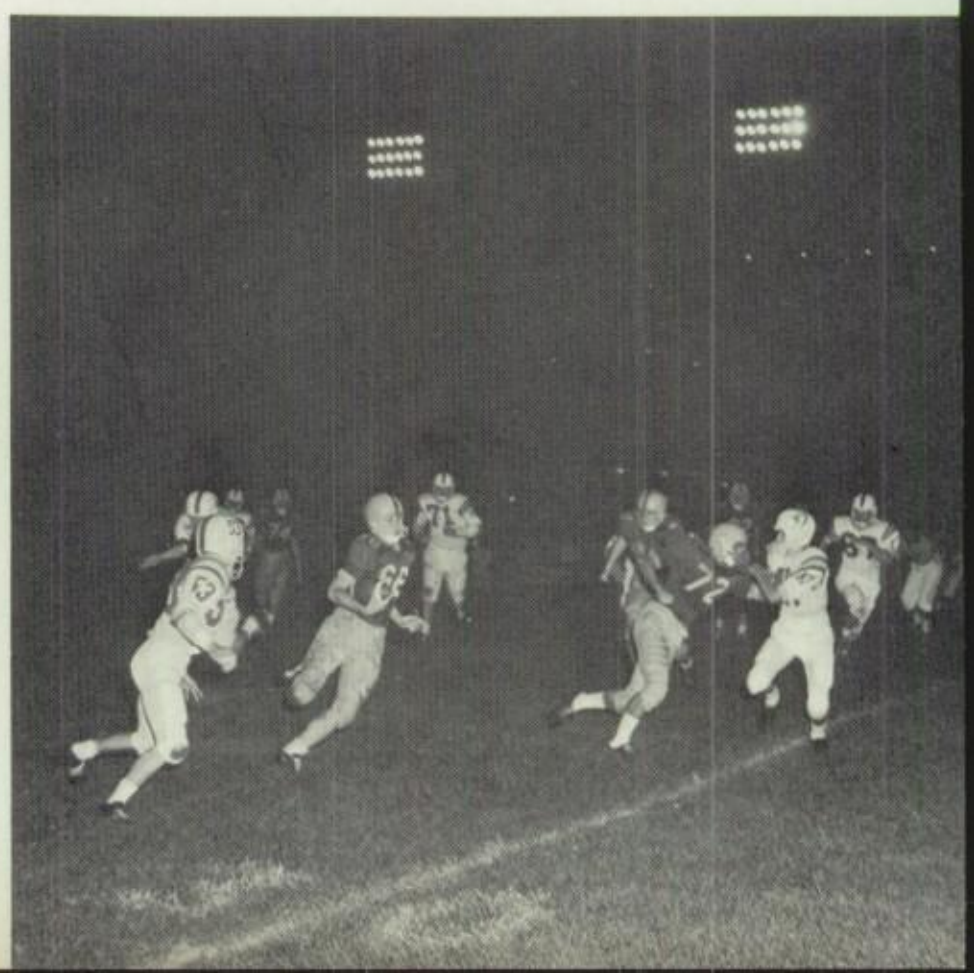
Patrick Henry's strong desire to win and the Colonels failure to take advantage of scoring opportunities cost the Colonels a heart breaking 14 to 7 defeat to their new cross town rival, the P. H. Patriots. Fleming scored first in the 2nd quarter with P. H. bouncing right back to score in the 4th quarter when Snow dove over right tackle with 9:41 left in the game. Below is David Wall (66) crossing the 30 yard line, while Don Barrett (72) blocks PH's Whitlock.



Colonels rejoice over defeat of cross-town rival Jefferson High School.

William Fleming 13 Jefferson 12

With spirit running high, the Colonels earned a 13-12 triumph over their cross-town rivals, the Jefferson Magicians. In the last minutes of the game, the defense squad stopped the Magicians on the Fleming three and intercepted a Magician pass, thus clinching the game for Fleming. At right Barry McCarty (74) races toward the side line in an effort to escape Jefferson's Crawford (43).

William Fleming 0 Andrew Lewis 7

Fleming lost a much needed game to the Andrew Lewis Wolverines, as a result of not taking advantage of the lapses in their opponent's defense. Fleming's big chance came in the second quarter when the ball was moved to the seven yard line, but the Blue and Gold couldn't muster the power for the big play and the game was lost 7-0. At left is Jackie Conner (79) making the initial stop for Fleming.

Varsity players Jim Bailey, Ronnie Minton, Chuck Johnson, Robert Riles, Chuck Hale and Fred Wallenfelsz stop for refreshment after Danville game.

William Fleming 28 Danville 25

The Fleming players took a hitch in their belts and with pure determination staged a two touchdown rally for a 28 to 25 win over George Washington of Danville. Wayne Ferrell got two Fleming TD's with Bill Deyerle and Richard Updike each scoring one. At left, Wayne Ferrell (65) races to escape Danville's Beale (22) and Marley (23).

William Fleming 6 Halifax 7

William Fleming entered the game with Halifax in an attempt to win Fleming's homecoming and a western district game. The game was battled on even terms until late in the 3rd quarter when both teams scored with Fleming missing the important extra point. Pictured at left are Dickie Moore (85) and Wayne Ferrell (65) on the receiving end of a Bill Deyerle pass with Lindley (2) of Halifax trying to break up the play.

Cheryl Wertz rushes to congratulate Jerry Dearing after the Colonels whitewash Covington.

William Fleming 32 Covington 0

Fleming's hard charging, running, and tackling cost the Covington Cougars a 32-0 loss to the Colonels. Fleming got the jump on the Cougars and kept the pressure up throughout the game. This win halted a four game winning streak for Covington. At right, Fleming's Crenshaw (68) dodges to escape Covington's Blankenship (22) and Leitch (29).

William Fleming 14 Graham 19

William Fleming met Graham in Victory Stadium for the final game of the season. Fleming had to win this game to come up with an even .500 season. Because of a last minute fumble on the 5 yard line in the last quarter, Fleming lost by the lone margin of five points. Pictured at right is David Wall (66) making Fleming's second touchdown.

With the teams' winning records, the cheerleaders were rewarded for their hard work. They held bake sales to raise money for their new uniforms, served as princesses at the opening of the Crossroads Mall and acted as hostesses for a P. T. A. Meeting.

Sponsoring buses to out-of-town football games was one of the year's projects. They also attended the Group I-A Western District basketball tournament at Halifax, cheered for an insurance company convention at Hotel Roanoke, and tried to promote good sportsmanship by visiting other local high schools.

Volleyball Championship captured

Under the capable leadership of Miss Betty Minton and Mrs. Linda Berry, the Girls' Volleyball Team captured the city volleyball championship. Practice began soon after school started and the team members showed unity and enthusiasm from the beginning to the end of the season.

To highlight the volleyball championship, a banquet was held at Patrick Henry High School. Co-captains Jo Anne Campbell and Brenda Martin presented the trophy to Mr. Graybill, who presented it to the school. The Championship trophy was the first to be placed in the new school.

"Practice makes perfect", as shown by some of the varsity team members.

Lack of experience and willingness to win caused the girls' Varsity Basketball team to take a third place position in the city league. Many long strenuous hours were spent each week in practice before a game in hopes of capturing a win. Even though the girls did not take the first place position, all of them enjoyed being on the team.

To gain experience for a position on the Varsity Team, was the aim of the Junior Varsity Members. The girls practiced very hard and always played well in games. They beat Catholic and Jefferson, which proved that they were a team of enthusiasm.

Mrs. Berry, coach of the team, taught the girls the basic skills in basketball and helped them to develop their bodies mentally and physically.

Miss Minton watches as one of her gym classes struggles with one of the new sports introduced this year.

Betty Brown and Patsy Holton are discussing the result of their tennis match.

With aid of new facilities, the girls gym classes finally got under way. During the fall of the year the girls participated in field hockey and soccer. The basic fundamentals were taught to the girls because these two sports rarely appear in high school.

When the cold months came and pushed the gym classes inside, they took up exercises and square dancing. This proved to be a lot of fun, and soon they realized what it was like to have aching muscles.

Girls improve their Athletic skills

Enthusiastic Girls earn G. A. A. points

Sandra Marshall and Rosemarie Lunsford prepare to spend their physical education class playing badminton.

Girls earn points through intramural sports.

To build bodies mentally and physically was the aim of the girls athletic program this year. Learning to think straight in the most tense moments tended to build confidence.

Many intramural teams were started by girls who wanted to increase their G. A. A. points and have fun at the same time. Eight volleyball teams and seven basketball teams competed in the intramural games.

When the spring rolled around, the girls started bowling once a week. Five girls composed a team and the team with the most points at the end of eight consecutive weeks received a prize.

Epilogue

From kindergarten to college each of us is continually challenged by new experiences and ideas. As we strive for greater knowledge and understanding of the world around us we prepare ourselves for the task that lies ahead, whether it be tomorrow's assignment or our life's work. Each person in the graduating class at Fleming must meet the vast expanse of the adult world as an adventurer going beyond the boundaries of high school life to search for those things which are highest and best in life. When 1962 is but a memory let each of us remember and be inspired by this, the year of NEW HORIZONS.

Hi Gail,

Best wishes to the best girl friend I've had. Don't forget all the good times we've had together. I hope we'll always be friends and I hope to see you in the coming years.

Love,
Diane

Good Luck to a very nice girl. Be sure to remember Diane & Ed in the future. Don't forget Knock Inn and the dance we were at. Be good and I'll see you Roz.

Good luck and best wishes in your future years and good luck also with your future husband to a real cute girl.

Love Carolyn Lovern

Hi Gail,
How does feel to be on the threshold of the cold, cruel world? I think its great. You deserve all the good things in life and I know you'll have them.

Best wishes,
Louise M. Rowe

Gail,
Best of luck
to a very sweet
and charming girl and friend.
Ron

Gail,
I hope I haven't bothered you too much
this year in English class.
Best of luck in the future.
Ron

Gail.
Best wishes to a real nice girl. You have added so much to Eng. + Hand. class
this year.
Sandra Brooks

Gail,
Best of luck always and keep that great personality
you've always had.
Good luck in your endeavors.
Sandra Sanford

Gail,
It sure has been fun knowing you this year. Don't ever change & always be a darling girl.
Be Good!
See you this summer
Love ya
Anna

Best wishes to a sweet girl. I have certainly enjoyed directing Gigi with
you this year.
Ricky Randel

Lots of luck to a real nice girl. Remember all the fun we had in Latin. Lots of success!

Stay sweet,
Margaret Payne

Hi there,
This year
sure has flown
by, but it has been enjoyable. Always remember the good times
we have had at lunch.
Hope you have very successful
years to come. Love Ya!
Janice Brayfield

Best wishes to a nice girl hope you have all the luck in the world in the years to come
Love Ya!!
Freddie Campbell

Gail
Best of luck to
a real sweet girl.
It's been lots of fun knowing you this year. Love
Don Mundy

Best wishes
and lots of success
in your future years.
Love

Gail –
Here's hoping you have all the luck in the world – I'll never forget all the fun I've had at Fleming and those Latin and Government classes!
Happiness
always,
Chris

Hi Gail,
It has been a lot of fun knowing
you these past years.
Here's wishing you loads
of luck in the future.
Hope to see you again
soon.
Love ya –

Hi Barb,

Well, it's about that time again, to sign annuals. I guess this will be the final time for us. It is kind of sad, but I am glad we both made it.

I have had a wonderful time knowing you these years at the old Fleming, and this year at our new school. I guess we both like the old one better. I have had a blast in our Honor Study Hall with miss James as supervisor. And also, all the times we would sit in the lunch room and always be late coming back. Remember how you used to come and talk about David, and how you would get mad at him, but he would never know it. I sure do hope that things work out with you. I'll not forget the time that I met a certain boy (DON) and he got mad and said I wasn't going to date him. I guess I'll learn.

I hope you won't forget the time that you and I went to the University of Virginia for an interview. We really had a marvelous time, but I will never forget how disappointed you were and how your faced dropped when you saw U. Va. Too bad I didn't make high on the college board, and you on ninth grade grades. It might work out for the better that both of us are going to Memorial. We will really have a blast over there. By the way, have you got your car yet?

I guess we will be walking down the graduation line pretty soon and 13 days later to Memorial. Best of luck in the future.

Love always, your friend

Dear Gail,

I have so much to say that I don't know where to start. I'll probably write a whole page and end up saying nothing.

We really had a lot of fun this winter. I can't say much for last summer, because we weren't together much. I doubt if we'll see much of each other this summer because you'll be in traning and I'll be gone most of the summer.

I hope you and David will have loads of fun in the future years. {as if I didn't know you will.}

I'll never forget the night you met David. We both took dares that night! Remember how I use to like "Charley"? That night I changed from him to Richard.

We've really had some fun at the hops at Trout ville and at Loyd Botetourt. Don't ever forget all of the fun we'll had at the ballgames. {Friday October 13, 1961} I really had fun that night. →

Remember all of the fun we've had in town on Friday nights. We've really seen some cute boys and cops. There is one thing good I can say about Roanoke, and Prouteille and that is that they've got some of the cutest city and State Policemen that I have ever seen. Don't forget my episodes with Hudson, Hammond, Berryman and "John" (?).

Remember what I told you about the Blue Ridge Mountain? (The Lone Ranger) Don't forget the day Mary Trent, you and I went to the show up at the Mall (The Fuzz) One of them was really cute and he kept watching us.

I don't know what I'll do with my symbol of John this summer. I guess I'd have to ditch it somewhere. I'd hate to do that because it is cute. (Don't you think so?)

Remember the day we saw Fred Prelanty on the street in town? I almost fell down in the middle of the street. I still think that he is cuter than Ron Sunshine or any other D. J. Remember the fun we had at the Mall on September 3, 1961 There was a hop out there that night and Fred Frelantz and Ron Sunshine were there. We were in heaven for a week.

Remember all of the fun I've had at Triangle town Ice Arena? Remember the time I took lessons from Freddy? ("Ich Leibe Dich" Herman)

We're going to have to go roller skating some this year. I think that we went twice last summer. Remember Cecil? I use to be crazy about him, but now I'm changed. He could really skate, but that was all. When you get a real close look at him he's not so cute. I also use to like Jol. I'll never forget him or Freddy and I'll always think they are both dolls.

Remember the summer you and I went to Lakeside with Gerald and Freddy (ugh!) How could I ever have stood him? I don't ever forget the party you had that summer. Also Remember the time you were going with Terry and he came up here and saw Gerald up here. Boy! He really got mad.

You got rid of both of them pritty easy.

Remember the good times I told you I had at Lake side?

I guess I'd better end my writing now, because I'm messed up your annual enough.

The best of luck always to my very best friend.

Love Ya,
Colleen
